GALLION HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Deputy Warden, Known Here, Who Attempted the Arrest of Alleged Poacher, is Himself Arrested.

HIS WIFE CHARGES DESERTION

Tries to Take Supposed Game Law Violator Into Custody by Use of Firearms and Suffers.

A. M. Gallion, the deputy fish and game commissioner, who was here for a few days recently and made a few arrests for violations and numerous other attempts, is having his troubles all in bunches. Not content with being filled full of shot by an alleged violator, he is now under arrest for wife desertion. It will be remembered that Gallion was shot several times by a supposed fish and game law violator near Rensselaer Wednesday, after he had opened fire first. Gallion made trouble for himself while in this section of the State by attempting to arrest a man near Liberty by the use of firearms. A special dispatch to the Indianapolis Star this morning from Rensselaer tells of the arrest: Albert M. Gallion, the deputy game and fish warden who was shot Wednesday while attempting to arrest James Haynes of Milroy township for alleged violation of game laws, was himself arrested by the Jasper county sheriff Friday evening on a warrant from Ohio, charging wife desertion. Gallion, who is 26 years old, was married at the age of 19, and deserted his wife a few days later, since which time, it is charged, he has made no provision for her support or that of his child, which he says he has never seen.

His wife is now ill with consumption, and having no means of support she was induced to swear out a warrant for Gallion's arrest. She is living in Miami county, Ohio. He will be taken to Logansport by the sheriff tomorrow and turned over to officers there. Gallion admits the charge, but asserts he was justified in the desertion of his wife before the birth of their child.

Since Gallion was shot he has been making efforts to arrest Haynes, but has been unsuccessful. He says he obtained information that Haynes has left the county, though he was reported Thursday night as having barricaded himself to avoid arrest.

A dispatch from Logansport, Gallion's home, says:

Albert M. Gallion has written John J. Hildebrandt the details of the Wednesday shooting. He says that Haynes is suspected of having stolen cattle recently and Haynes mistook him for a White county officer. Gallion declares the sheriff of White county advanced that theory after the shooting and that White county officials are now hunting for Haynes.

Concerning the arrest of Gallion on the charge of wife desertion, relatives of Gallion in Logansport declare they will see Gallion through that trouble, asserting the marriage was solemnized with Gallion under duress, and that he has never lived with his wife and never intends to, but that he has provided for the maintenance of the child, the sum stipulated at the time of marriage.

FOOD LAW VIOLATIONS.

During the month of June there were 14 prosecutions by the State board of health for violations of the pure food law and of the sanitary food establishment law, according to a report made by H. E. Barnard, State food and drug commissioner. Of this number twelve were successful from the State's point of view and fines assessed as a result amounting to $252.25.

FIRST OF UNION MEETINGS

Rev. A. W. Jamieson of U. P. Church, to Deliver Sermon.

The first of the series of Sunday evening union church services which were decided to be held by the Rushville Ministerial Association, will be held at the Main Street Christian church tomorrow night. Rev. A. W. Jamieson of the United Presbyterian church will deliver the sermon. The services will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

YOUNG MEN OPEN UP FOR BUSINESS

Casady & Kennedy Are Ready For Customers at Old Winship
Dry Goods Store.

BOTH EXPERIENCED IN LINE

The Casady & Kennedy dry goods store was opened for business this morning. They are located at the old Winship stand in Main street, having purchased the business from John Winship, who was in business there for thirty years. Mr. Winship returned from the business Saturday July 2, and Casady & Kennedy took charge of the stock the following Monday. The store has been closed since that time, completing the invoice. Mr. Casady was formerly a partner in the Casady & Cox shoe store and disposed of his interest to Ben A. Cox a few days ago. He was in the dry goods business at one time. Mr. Kennedy has been employed at the Winship store for several years and is experienced in the business.

ANOTHER LAWYER ENTERS THE RACE

Cary Carson Announces Candidacy For Democratic Prosecutor of Sixteenth Judicial Circuit.

FOUR ASPIRE FOR PLACE NOW

One more candidate in the field for the Democratic nomination for prosecuting attorney of the sixteenth judicial district, composed of Rush and Shelby counties and the race promises to wax warm before many days have passed. The honors are now evenly divided with two candidates from each county.

Cary Carson, a young attorney of this city of the law firm of Stevens & Carson, yesterday announced that he was an aspirant for the nomination. Dennis O'Neil of this city is also a candidate.

John C. Cheney, the present prosecuting attorney, and James Brown, both of Shelby county are seeking the nomination. Rush county Democrats are bound and determined that they shall have the office, since they have no candidate for the judge's bench. On the other hand, John C. Cheney says that he is entitled to the nomination since it has been the custom to have two terms.

HURT IN BAD FALL.

Andersonville Herald: Mrs. Sarah Pond, formerly a resident of this township, but who has been making her home at New Salem for several years, had the misfortune of a heavy fall the other day which injured her hip so severely that she can not take a step. As she is very old it will be some time before she can use the leg.

The D. A. R. library is assuming greater proportions almost daily. The librarian has adopted a new system in keeping the number of books that leave the library. She keeps a daily record, showing the number of books taken out each day and classifies them under the heads of fiction, history, science or reference. For the first half of the month of July 458 books were taken out.

The rest room is becoming almost an essential. It is not an uncommon thing to hear women from the country speak of it in the most laudatory terms. One of the features about the rest room is to notice the use the little street urchins make of it—and fortunately Rushville has fewer than probably any other city its size. It would do a person good to go to the reading room for an hour's visit and notice the number of young boys who are there pouring over periodicals. It is doing in part the work of a Y. M. C. A., which Rushville needs so badly.

EDITOR WILL GO TO NEW MEXICO

Claude Simpson Will Leave Wednesday For South For Benefit of His Health.

HAS GROWN UP WITH WORK

Has the Distinction of Being Youngest Editor in the State—Was on Indianapolis News.

Claude Simpson, editor of the Daily Republican, will leave Wednesday for Roswell, New Mexico, for the benefit of his health. He has been suffering with a slight illness for the past four months and has been unable to attend to all of his duties during that time. He was taken sick about the middle of March with a very severe attack of pleurisy and has never fully recovered. Although Mr. Simpson has not been confined to his home all during the time, he has been unable to attend to all of the responsibilities of his position. Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Simpson, parents of Mr. Simpson, will accompany him to New Mexico and will remain for a few weeks.

Mr. Simpson has the distinction of being the youngest editor in the State. Although twenty-two years of age, he has had editorial charge of the Daily Republican, an eight-page daily, since last August. Mr. Simpson has grown up with the newspaper business in Rushville and was experienced in the profession before he graduated from school. He worked on several papers in Rushville during his college days and reported for several local papers during his high school days. He started in early to make the business his business and has succeeded.

Claude Simpson is a product of Rush county, having been born and reared here. He went through the common schools and completed his high school course with the class of 1904. The next fall, Mr. Simpson entered Indiana University with the Freshman class. He was graduated from the State University in 1908, completing the four-year course in that length of time. Mr. Simpson was very active in college life and made many friends during his career in school. He was identified with many college organizations, notably the University Press Club. He took a very active interest in the organization and did some work on the Daily Student, the press club and University paper. Mr. Simpson took the course in journalism at the State school and gained more knowledge of the profession which he expected to make his life work.

Following his graduation from Indiana University, Mr. Simpson accepted a position as associate city editor of the Daily Republican with Tom J. Geraghty. He was employed in that capacity for a few months and in the fall accepted an offer from the Indianapolis News. He acted as assistant State editor of the Indianapolis paper for about ten months. Upon the resignation of Tom J. Geraghty to go to the New York Herald, Mr. Simpson accepted the editorship of the paper. He began work last August.

Mr. Simpson has a host of friends here who regret to see him leave the city. He has made many friends in newspaper work as well as the acquaintanceships which he formed in school and in the city. Mr. Simpson is undecided about his future work in New Mexico, but it is probable that he will remain in the newspaper business.

J. Feudner, one of the proprietors of the Daily Republican, who has always had editorial supervision of the paper, will take a more active interest in that department. Roy E. Harrold, who has been employed as city editor of the paper since Mr. Simpson went to the Indianapolis News, will remain as news editor.

PROBABLY START WORK NEXT WEEK

Word Received Here That Contractors Will be Here to Begin Paving of Streets.

NOTIFIED OF BOARD'S ACTION

It is highly probable that the work on the paving of Main and Second streets will be started next week. A. L. Stewart, county surveyor, notified the Adams Brothers Construction company of Zanesville, Ohio, immediately of the action of the commissioners last week, when they made a new bond issue which can be sold. Mr. Stewart received a letter last night, stating that the members of the contracting company were out of the city and would not return until today. The letter said further that a member of the firm would probably be here the first of next week and that the work would be started at that time.

HAS FREAK PIG WITH TWO LEGS

Peculiar Animal Belonging to A.
M. Hodge Can Balance Itself and Walk Easily.

NEVER HAS HAD ANY HIPPS

A. M. Hodge, living ten miles southwest of this city, believes that he has the banner pig of the county or even of the State. He has a little squealer which has only two feet and legs and it can get over the ground as fast as any of its comrades. The animal balances itself on the two legs and walks easily. It has no hips but is well developed in other portions of its body. The pig is a male and was farrowed last September 19. It will weigh about one hundred and fifty pounds. Mr. Hodge will sell the unique animal for exhibition purposes.

HOSPITALITY IS KEYNOTE OF DAY

Local Business Men Showed Fine Spirit in Entertainment of Indianapolis Boosters.

SOCIAL CLUB THROWN OPEN

Feeling Lack of Commercial Rooms, Clubmen Take Action and Display
Public Spiritdness.

The treatment of the Indianapolis boosters here yesterday by the local business men was the source of much comment, both from the visitors and local men as well. The Indianapolis men were more than pleased with the manner in which they were entertained and expressed their appreciation by expressions heard in the crowd. A remark dropped by a member of the boosters' party to one of his friends showed the feeling which existed concerning the entertainment here, when he casually said: "Treated us right, didn't they?" The man to whom the question was addressed, heartily agreed and said that they were given the best treatment of the day, fried chicken dinner not excluded. The visitors did not have time to hold any public exercises as they were occupied most of the time in eating the elaborate dinner at the K. of P. hall.

The doors of the Social club were thrown wide open for the event and the visiting tradesmen were given all of the accommodations which they could have obtained at a first class hotel. The manner in which the clubmen showed their hospitality was the cause for much favorable comment among the local citizens. Local business men as well as the guests of the city were supplied with every want at the club rooms. Arriving from the long and dusty ride of the morning, the visiting boosters were invited to repair to the spacious and beautiful club, where every convenience was arranged. They were asked to use the wash rooms and colored porters waited on them in nearly every room of the club apartments. Ice cold lemonade was served and the visitors were made to feel that they were at home. Local citizens who are not members of the club were also invited to assist in the entertainment of the city's guests and lounged in the club rooms during the stay of the boosters in the city.

Feeling the lack of commercial club rooms in the city, the members of the Social club sought to make amends for the things that were missing. They showed their true hospitality by opening the doors of the private club to the public. It is the first time in the history of the club that the doors were ever thrown open to the public. The members of the club should be commended for their action in showing such a spirit of hospitality. Comments of local business men on their action are very favorable and they are all unanimous in saying that it was an act for the general public's good and shows a spirit which will go much to make Rushville a better city.

The visit of the Indianapolis boosters yesterday also brings to light forcibly the fact that the local business men have joined in a greater hospitality than they have ever before shown, probably due to the fact that the Rushville Merchants' Association is in existence. The business men turned out yesterday to meet the visitors at the car and attempted to show in every way possible that they wished to entertain in a royal manner.

The Indianapolis Star says of the visit of the boosters in this section of the State:

At Rushville dinner was served in the K. of P. hall and the band played

WAR CRY OF THE ADMINISTRATION

Will Be Voiced in the Ohio Republican State Platform.

TAFT PUT O. K. ON THE MODEL

The Tentative Draft of Platform For Coming State Convention Which Dick and Ellis Carried All the Way to Burgess Point, Is Expected to Contain Material For the General Rallying Cry Which the Republicans Will Adopt This Fall.

Beverly, Mass., July 16.—Senator Charles Dick of Ohio and Wade H. Ellis, chairman of the Ohio Republican committee, brought a tentative draft of the platform that party expects to put up to the Ohio state convention on July 27, to President Taft. The president was glad to see the rough notes of the platform, and went over them carefully. While the White House was reticent about the meeting, it is thought that this platform when presented to the Ohio convention will be a model affair in the eyes of Taft. The model, some of the president's friends hope, will serve for other Republican conventions. In it the Republicans of the country will find arguments with which to get the votes this fall. It will contain material for a battle cry with which all Republicans can be spurred to victory in the congressional elections. When it is made public the country will know on what lines the administration expects to fight out the little affair with the Democrats. There was no talk about candidates at the meeting, it was said. While it was admitted that Representative Nick Longworth, son-in-law of the ex-president, may prove a dark horse and carry the convention, just now it does not look as if he would be nominated. Mr. Longworth is to be temporary chairman of the convention; Senator Burton permanent chairman, and Senator Dick chairman of the committee on resolutions which will present the platform.

There are four probable candidates, according to present indications: Carmi Thompson, secretary of state; Warren G. Harding of Marion, Judge O. B. Brown of Dayton, and Mr. Longworth. Mr. Longworth was said here to have an agreement with Boss Cox of Cincinnati that he will not be a candidate. Cox is said to favor Judge Brown, who therefore is regarded now as having the best chance of any of the avowed candidates. The draft brought the president was rough, the visitors said, but it contained the essence of the real platform. Here are some of the things it contains at present: An indorsement of the Payne law and of the tariff commission, which will make possible a scientific readjustment of schedules which need change.

A denial that the increased cost of living is to be laid at the door of Republicans, as Governor Harmon had said.

An indorsement of the railroad and postal savings legislation at the last session.

It was said that the Ohio platform will commend the policy of government economy inaugurated by this administration.

Inefficient public service and "grafting," whether by Democrats or Republicans, will be held up to scorn. The Taft policy of conservation will be indorsed and declared to be nearly like that of Roosevelt, according to the intention.

WOMAN JUSTIFIED

Court Said She Could Whip Another Woman Under Circumstances.

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 16.—City Judge J. Frank Mungovan holds the opinion that one woman is justified in administering a whipping to another woman under certain conditions. In support of this theory the court said during the hearing of a case that he would acquit Mrs. George Young of a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Aldora Pickard if it could be shown that Mrs. Pickard had been "keeping company" with Mrs. Young's husband. In accordance therewith the case was continued to hear further evidence.

The two women met, in the street and Mrs. Pickard was knocked down in the fight that followed. She denies that she has been receiving the attentions of Young, who is an insurance agent in this city.

Will Sue Company For Damages. Washington, Ind., July 16.—E. N. Boileaux of Cincinnati, chief of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern railroad police, is here to make an investigation of the shooting at the local shops, when his brother-in-law, Fred Heger of Cincinnati, a guard, and Frank Elkins of New York, a strike breaker, were shot and painfully wounded. Elkins has retained attorneys to push a claim for damages against the company because a detective employed by the company shot him.

SEARCH FOR CRIPPEN IS NOW WORLD-WIDE

Husband of Murdered Singer
In a Great Dragnet.

New York, July 16.—Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, who is wanted by Scotland Yard as the murderer of his wife, Belle Elmore, the music hall singer, was not a passenger on any of the transatlantic liners that have reached New York since the alarm was sent out. Inspector Russell, head of the detective bureau here, is inclined to agree with Scotland Yard that Dr. Crippen and his mistress, Ethel Clare Leneve, are hidden either in London or in France. The Scotland Yard trailers are ransacking London for the pair and the French police are searching every town and village of their country where it would be likely that Crippen and Miss Leneve might have gone. "The search will be kept up," said Inspector Russell, "and every incoming steamship will be examined carefully, but I think it unlikely that Crippen and the young woman would be so stupid as to come to the United States at this time. Of course, nobody thought Porter Charlton would flee straight into the hands of the detectives who were waiting for him at the pier and Crippen might do the same thing. I believe, though, that with his knowledge of French he would be more apt to hide in France or somewhere in Europe."

Constable's Victim Dies.

Kokomo, Ind., July 16.—J. W. Edwards, a negro who was shot Thursday night by Constable Welty following a dispute over 50 cents, died of his wounds last night. Welty is in jail.

GUFFEY IN HANDS OF A RECEIVER

Affairs of Big Oil and Coal Man Tied Up.

A SENSATION IN PITTSBURG

Colonel Guffey Says, However, That His Assets Double His Liabilities, and He Does Not Expect Receivership to Last Long—Politics, It is Believed, Has Had No Small Part in Creating Financial Embarrassment.

Pittsburg, July 16.—The business affairs of Colonel J. M. Guffey, Democratic leader of Pennsylvania, member of the national committee and one of the best known oil and coal men of the entire country, have been placed in the hands of a receiver. The assets of Colonel Guffey are said to be $17,000,000; his liabilities less than $7,000,000. Inability to realize on his assets, which consist largely of coal lands in West Virginia, is said to be the reason for Mr. Guffey's embarrassment.

The receivership proceedings caused a sensation. John S. Willard of Pittsburg was appointed receiver and was placed under $100,000 bond by the courts. Mr. Guffey has issued a statement expressing regret that it had become necessary that his affairs be placed in the hands of a receiver, but it would afford protection to himself as well as to creditors.

"My assets are more than double the amount of my obligations, and I do not expect the receivership to continue for any great time," said Colonel Guffey.

It is set forth in the receivership papers that he is the largest holder of West Virginia coal lands in the country, his holdings in that being 136,700 acres. About three years since, or previously to the panic, Colonel Guffey invested heavily in coal lands there, and it is thought that has in the main been responsible for his trouble.

Politics have played perhaps as much of a hand in his affairs as investments in coal lands. The Pittsburg man who began as a very poor boy took a hand in Pennsylvania politics quite early in life, and for many years has been acknowledged as the leader of Democracy in this state. His pocketbook was long and always open to both state and national causes of Democracy. Seemingly a natural leader, he came into national prominence in politics in 1897, when he was elected Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania, replacing William F. Harry. Guffey came into the national political game as a Bryan man, which made his quarrel with Colonel Bryan three years ago all the more spectacular. It was at the Denver convention that Guffey was practically read from the party by Bryan, who had Colonel James Kerr made committeeman in his place. Kerr died soon after his election and Guffey was again made a member of the national committee by his constituency in Pennsylvania, a position which he yet holds. Those who know the colonel best declare he has always been a "mark"; that in his life he has given away nearly $5,000,000, without hope of ever getting a cent back.

One Effect of Prohibition.

Nashville, Tenn., July 16.—One effect of state-wide prohibition in Tennessee is a 200 per cent increase in money orders paid at the Hopkinsville (Ky.) postoffice, during which time the amount has jumped from $30,750.70 to $90,415.95. Nearly 21,000 money orders were paid during the year. This increase was on account of the wholesale liquor business with Tennessee.

CHINESE FANMAKING.

The fanmaking industry in China was started centuries ago in the village of Pengshow, at Ampow, about three miles from Swatow. It was formerly confined to women in various households, but for many years past every family in the village has been devoted to the work, all the members of the families being occupied in the manufacture. Only the open fan is manufactured in this district.

For the frame the split bamboo is repeatedly riveted until each piece is sufficiently slender and flexible. These threadlike pieces of bamboo are arranged in a row, attached to each other by a thread passed crosswise through the middle. This thread is fastened to a semi-circular strip of bamboo, giving the fan its shape. The ribs are then slightly heated and bent at the ends. The fan has now the peculiar and characteristic shell-like shape at the top. Very flimsy silk gauze is then pasted on the face and a kind of tissue-like paper on the back.

After the handle is attached the border of the fan is black varnished and the gauze is coated with a chalk and water mixture. The handles are made of bamboo, various kinds of hard wood, bone and ivory. The hand painting on the fans is cleverly done, in some instances being works of art.

COUNTY NEWS.

Arlington.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church gave a social on Thursday evening in the basement of the M. E. church. All who attended enjoyed themselves.

Since the arrest Wednesday evening of the operator and his pretended wife.

Dr. Sexton and Dr. A. G. Shauck performed a surgical operation on Wm. Gordon west of town for stone in the bladder. They took a stone away as large as large hen egg. Mr. Gordon rallied after the operation and is now doing well and no doubt will recover.

The farmers are making good use of the summer days and the town is deserted in the day time. The country people have about abandoned the town and business is not half what it was a year ago. This is wrong.

Ed Woods, who lives west of town is very ill with a complication of troubles and is said to be in a dangerous condition. Dr. Hamilton is attending him.

A number of Arlington people attended the show at Rushville Wednesday.

Lennie Winkler, who has been dangerously ill for some time is now out again and able to look after business.

Several from here are making plans to go to the city if business does not improve.

Rev. Mr. Morrow is growing very popular as a minister at this place. His sermons are well studied and are very interesting to all who hear them.

The report is current here that Len Mull of Manilla has made a fortune in a wheat deal recently.

Gwynneville will be taking on city style when the new bank is started there.

New wheat will soon be coming in and then money ought to be spent freely. The prospect is for a fair crop and prices are good.

WEATHER EFFECTS.

The Chicago Tribune recently printed an interesting comment on atmospheric conditions and effects as follows:

The east winds hug the earth more closely and gather moisture, dust and bacteria. They are cold and humid, altogether forming an enervating influence on human and animal life, and rendering it susceptible to the disease germs which the winds carry and disseminate.

The cool, pure northwest winds come from a region of dry, highly electrified air where ozone exists in comparatively large quantities. They are invigorating. The framework of nerves in the human being is like a delicate electrical apparatus, the nerves being the wires and the brain and ganglia receiving and distributing centers.

Everyone knows that a telephone works better on a clear, dry day than on a wet muggy one. The moist atmosphere lessens vitality. The nerve wires grow flaccid and heavy. The messages become confused. Hence low spirits, melancholia, distorted mental outlook, faculty assimilation and disease.

The opposite effects flow from the northwest winds. The west and northwest winds keep the mucous membranes of the body in good working order. The coating of moisture which is always present with the east winds disappear. Absence of any wind if long continued has a bad effect on the human body and mind.

The prolonged calm means lack of ventilation on a great scale. The winds serve to mix in normal proportion the gases which compose the atmosphere, and in this way they are conducive to health up to a certain point. Beyond about twenty miles an hour their influence begins to be unfavorable.

No Profit in Deception

John Wanamaker, the merchant prince of Philadelphia and New York, has made the charge that the department store advertising in the great cities has fallen to a plane which borders on an attempt to obtain money by false pretenses. Mr. Wanamaker declared that the conventional advertising has developed a habit of untruth and exaggeration that has finally become so palpable that the public has lost faith and interest in the advertisements.

There are certain stores in the great cities which make it a practice to tell the exact truth in their advertisements. This is so well recognized in the community that an attractive announcement is certain to fill the department with customers while other merchants can hurl black type announcing "The most wonderful values ever offered to the people of America," and scarcely create a ripple of interest.

Why this kind of misrepresentation is kept up in the face of its apparent unproductiveness has been the subject of many a complaint. It does not appear to be a great trade producer and only a percentage of those who go to the store in response to the bait purchase when they see the goods actually offered.

But it is noticeable that most of these superlative city advertisers have established "mail order" departments and are bending every effort to extend their business in this direction. The inference is that the great black faced type in the metropolitan Sunday newspapers are not written for the people of the metropolis. They may be called to the store as a horse is led to the trough but they can't be made to buy when they see the quality of the bargains, any more than the horse can be made to drink foul water.

But the out-of-town resident who orders by mail doesn't see the stuff until it arrives. He may send it back, to be sure, but express charges both ways are a safeguard to the advertisers against this and the buyer makes the best of a bad bargain. He resolves to buy from his home merchant in the future—and a month or two later sends another order on the strength of another glittering advertisement.

The farmer has stopped buying gold bricks; eventually he and the resident of the smaller cities will refuse to send "mail orders" and will aid in getting better markets at home by giving their patronage exclusively to their home merchants. There is no profit for them in spending money on misleading advertisements which would only anger prospective customers. Deceptive advertising will die out only when it ceases to be profitable.

Peaches and Cream

To be popular with the dear girls the young man in this city must own a motorcycle. And the few owners of machines in this city are now the envy of those less fortunate.

Since the advent of the "Go-devil" women have been riding the machines in the larger cities, where there are miles of paved streets, but they rode "man-fashon" on a saddle at the rear of the machine. This way is now relegated to the past and since the new plan has been adopted Rushville girls are "just crazy" to spin on the gasoline wheels.

"It is too sweet for anything," one set of laughing eyes said one day recently. The machines are so constructed that the gasoline tank forms a comfortable seat for one in front of the driver, and it is here that the fair sex get the exhilarating pleasure of a motorcycle spin. The pedal of the machine forms a rest for the dainty No. 6 boot and she sits "side saddle" on the middle of the machine, as the powerful little engines drives the machinist and his passenger over the road at a merry clip.

Moonshining on the Increase

Prohibition in some of the Southern States appears to be having at least one of the expected effects, says the Springfield Republican. The manufacture of illicit corn whiskey is on the increase, and is now selling at $2.50 a gallon. As it costs about 30 cents a gallon to make, the profit of $2.20 is enough to draw many into one of the most desperate of all trades. Word of the increase in moonshining has gone out from the internal revenue offices at Washington and eight additional special agents have been added to its force within the last few days, the number now being up to the limit warranted by the congressional appropriation. The States said to be increasing their output of "mountain dew" are the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Oklahoma, and in these five revenue officers have lost their lives within the last two weeks in the discharge of their duty.

Moonshine is never sold, for that is as much of a sin as making it. Once a northern man wanted some as a curiosity. He knew a man who was reported to be a moonshiner, and he cultivated him assiduously for ten long weeks, but never would the man admit there was such a thing on earth as corn whiskey. One day a small bottle was found in an odd corner, and it was full of the white vitriol. The matter was never mentioned, the whiskey was a token of friendship presented through a refined "bee tree," the salesroom of the moonshiner. If there is a "bee tree" in a Southern county the thirsty seem to hear tidings of it quickly. At dusk they sneak to it and leave a bottle or a jug in the shadow of its trunk, and on the receptacle a bit of silver. At dawn they sneak back, the money has disappeared, but the jug is full. No questions have been asked or answered, and no sale has been made, according to the moonshiner's code.

These are the conditions in the prohibition States, as near as it is possible to "know the unknowable." The whiskey thus made and circulated is as vile as it is strong; it makes men fighting drunk, drunk for hour after hour, drunk in a way which makes gun play seem the natural course of events. The government is doing noble work in its efforts to stamp out moonshining as long as conditions remain as they are.

Express Company Kicks

The Adams Express Company, in a complaint before the State board of tax commissioners at Indianapolis, declared that the board had, in appraising the company's property in Indiana, placed a valuation on it of seven times the actual value of the taxables. The appraisement was set at $455,000 in early session of the board, an increase of several thousand dollars over that of the preceding year.

While the company objected to an appraisal seven times the real value of the property, it acknowledged that the board had a right to assess it at four and one-half times its value, or approximately $345,000, because of a recent United States court decision, which proved that the assessable property of a corporation may be ascertained by the quotations of its stock on the New York stock exchange. Since the Adams Express Company stock was quoted high about March 1, the State tax board's estimate of its valuation as far as Indiana is concerned, made it near the half-million dollar mark.

According to a representative of the company the total property valuation of the company is $29,000,000. In actual lands, wagons, horses, etc., the company has $21,200,000 leaving a difference of $7,800,000, which is "velvet," distributing among all the States in which the company operates. Indiana was entitled to her share of the taxes from this "velvet," he represented and no more.

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organs. The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

The truth is Republicans in State offices are making a splendid record for honest and businesslike service, entirely independent of what the Democratic governor is doing.

"Beveridge Wins Endorsement in Standpat Center—First District Republican Convention Gets on Senator's Bandwagon," are the headlines in the Richmond Item over the news dispatch of the First District Republican convention at Booneville. The fact is Senator Beveridge captured the State convention early in the year and there is nothing left for the Republican county conventions to do but to endorse the State platform for the sake of the party's success, and let it go at that. The usual endorsement of both Taft and the State platform by every county convention in the State is a risible absurdity—a downright inconsistency.

Norman E. Mack, national Democratic chairman, writing in his National Monthly, declares that "the names of Harmon of Ohio and Marshall of Indiana must figure in the national discussion." It is a pity Tom Taggart did not realize this great truth in time to permit Governor Marshall's name to "figure in the discussion" at the Democratic State convention in Indiana.

Governor Marshall says Democrats of Indiana will not vote the Republican ticket. Apparently he chooses to forget 1904, when some 25,000 Indiana Democrats did that very thing. It is significant that conditions at this time are much the same as they were in 1904, with Tom Taggart in the saddle, and W. J. Bryan and his friends insultingly eliminated from Democratic councils. When the Democratic governor talks Democratic solidarity he speaks from his partisanship rather than out of his inner common sense.

Indiana Democrats are making a great play on the public accounting law on the assumption that it is a Democratic party measure. As is well known, that law was put before the legislature by an organization of Indiana business men, most of whom are Republicans. It was passed by a Republican senate, and was supported with unanimity in the house. It is a measure bi-partisan in character, and the field examiners are chosen from both great political parties. If the law is good it will prove itself. If it works well, its benefits and reforms will be due as much to Republican efforts, as to the efforts of any other element. If it is misused by partisans the truth will be proclaimed. Governor Marshall, in his speech to the Indiana Democratic convention, publicly adopted the public accounting law as his own measure, but the papers cannot be made to stick.

The same Democratic governor tries to take credit to himself for efficiency in the administration of State affairs, though the fact that all but two of the State offices are filled by Republicans detracts somewhat from the Democratic governor's claim.

Steady Increase.

The several bank reports published in the Tribune last week show a gratifying degree of prosperity in the west end of the county, and that there is ample money for the volume of trade. Taking these reports several years back and they will show that there has been a steady increase in deposits, not wholly accounted for by growing population, but rather from additional business and farm products. So long as a community grows in finances it is a safe place to live—Cambridge City Tribune.

What the Tribune says is true in a marked degree of this community and generally throughout the country. Here the steadily increased number of individual depositors is especially marked. Conditions under Republican administrations are steadily advancing toward betterment. But one would not believe this who allowed himself to believe the muck rakers and that part of the Democratic press which is fed on press matter specially prepared by "news bureaus" where matter is prepared for publication regardless of fact. Yet, without this made-to-order stuff it would be very difficult for this element of the Democratic press to provide "filling" without admitting that the country, under the corrective influence of Republican administration themselves, is reaching a higher and better plane, for all classes, year by year.

Insurgency Defined.

It is a fact that no two insurgents insure exactly alike, and it is really hard to tell just what insurgency is, or on what particular point insurgents differ from the regulars. Wm. Dudley Foulke, editor of the Richmond Item, being an adept in insurgency, lays down a declaration of insurgent principles—a sort of "articles of faith," as follows:

Shall the common welfare be the supreme care of the State or shall it be subordinate to certain special interests of a privileged few? Shall these interests be controlled and regulated by the government or shall they control and regulate the government? This question draws within its scope all problems relating to (1) the trusts, (2) the tariff, (3) the conservation of public resources. The cleavage of our people in respect to these issues is not upon mere party lines. Both parties profess opposition to special interests and devotion to the public welfare, and in this they represent the convictions of the great mass of the voters belonging to them.

But the advocates of special interests are far more alert and better organized than those who are concerned only for the public welfare. A disproportionate number of the representatives of these interests from both parties are found in congress and have exercised a preponderant influence on legislation. In the matter of the trusts they have prevented or postponed enactment greatly needed for the supervision of monopolies; in regard to the tariff they have secured schedules for the further aggrandizement of oppressive combinations by imposing unnecessary burdens upon the great body of the toilers and other consumers of the country; in the matter of conservation they have in past years secured the most important part of our public domain and of our natural resources and more recently they have barely failed to acquire the remainder.

The controlling influence exerted by the holders and seekers of these special privileges must cease.

1. In the matter of the trusts we demand that whenever a corporation or combination of individuals whose product is a subject of traffic between the States has been shown by competent authority to possess a substantial monopoly, oppressive, by its control of prices to its competitors or to the public, it should be made subject, at the hands of an appropriate bureau or department of the government, to the same kind of regulation as that to which common carriers engaged in interstate traffic are now subjected.

2. We demand a tariff which shall represent as to manufactured articles the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad, so that there may be fair and reasonable competition between the domestic and foreign producer. We favor a tariff commission composed of experts to ascertain this difference in cost at the earliest practical moment and we insist upon the speedy reduction of special schedules known or found to be excessive, these schedules to be reduced by bills covering only particular classes of goods in order that the evils of legislative log-

A London Stroll

Letter of Travel by William R. Jinnett

We visited, today, in Chelsea, the house where lived and died Thomas Carlyle. The house contains many relics of this great author. His writing chair; his table and his bed are still seen. A memorial tablet with his portrait is on the front of the house and a statue of the great man stands close by on the Chelsea embankment. After leaving this spot we visited Lambeth Palace, which has for 600 years been the official residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury. We gained entrance by special permission and were delighted with a series of portraits of the arch bishops from the year 600 to the present time. A delightful party is given in the palace garden annually, and here all the distinguished people of London gather. The Loddard's Tower, so called because of the fact that the Loddards, who were followers of Wycliffe, were here imprisoned and put to the torture. The inscriptions left by the Loddards and other prisoners, as well as the instrument of torture still remain.

We visited Greenwich because of the fact that from this point the longitude of the world is reckoned. We visited London Bridge and the Billingsgate Fish Market, the latter supposed to be associated with brawling women and bad language. While we were here, however, at 5:30 a. m., the hour of greatest activity, there was no unnecessary noise and not a single oath did we hear; so there is not much in the name and much less in the reputation. The dock warehouses give to the traveler an idea of the wealth of London. Near Rotherhithe is Jacob's Island, rendered notorious by Dickens in Oliver Twist.

We next paid a visit to the Mansion House, the residence of the Lord Mayor of London. The house was built in 1739 and is therefore nearly two hundred years old. Here the city banquets, of whose splendor and magnificence everybody has heard, are given. The Mayor holds court here the year around and dispenses hospitality with a lavish hand. Our next visit was to the Bank of England and Royal Exchange. The Bank of England was established by William Patterson, a Scotchman, in 1694. The bank is now the agent of the government and is the only bank rolling, inevitable in a general revision of the tariff may be avoided.

3. As to our public resources, we demand, in addition to the preservation and development of our forests, that all mining and water rights and privileges shall be leased for limited terms only, upon reasonable rentals and royalties and not granted in perpetuity to private individuals or corporations.

In The First District. (Indianapolis Star.)

Whatever antagonism has existed between Mr. Beveridge on one side and Messrs Hemenway and Watson on the other side, it seems to The Star that yesterday's proceedings at Booneville reveal the two last-named gentlemen in a light that fair-minded persons must concede to be creditable and even generous. Even if we assume that the somewhat ostentatious instance that the senior senator be named in the resolution indorsing him was partly dictated by a politic desire to hold out the olive branch, it was nevertheless a display of excellent spirit and good political judgment.

Considering that the convention was overwhelmingly in the control of the Hemenway element, the platform is a much fairer attempt at harmony than might have been expected. The Star can not agree with encomiums of the Payne-Aldrich bill, but it recognizes no way in which it can superimpose its views upon Republicans in the First or any other district, and there always remains the argument that those who have to win a political fight ought to know what is the best battle ground and method of offensive and defensive operations.

From the evidence at hand, and in a spirit of simple justice, it is a duty and pleasure to assume from now on that the Republican leadership in the First District is fully committed and earnestly engaged to win a victory there this fall for the legislative, congressional, State and local tickets. It has been the scene heretofore of crushing defeats, but it has also been the scene of splendid victories. We wish the outlook were not darkened with a shadow of disappointed and resentful candidacies; but this may be over come, and unless we misjudge the spirit of the leadership there, it will be overcome. Shall the First District be redeemed?

In Fetter Lane nearby lived the leather seller who sat in Parliament under the name "Praise God Bare Bones," whose son was called "Dammed Bare Bones." At No. 16, Fetter Lane, lived the infamous Mrs. Brownrigg. We visited Convent Garden Market where, displayed for sale, we saw flowers and fruits in rich luxuriance from every nation and from every clime. We visited the houses where lived Sir Isaac Newton and Joshua Reynolds; the former, 35 St. Martin's street, the latter, No. 47 Leicester Square. In Soho Square stands the French Huguenot Church, which was to me a point of great interest from the fact that here my ancestors took refuge and worshipped more than three centuries ago, when driven from France after the massacre of St. Bartholomew.

London, England, June 28, 1910.

INDIANA POLITICS

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, July 16.—Charles Beary Beary Landis, of Delphi, for many years a leader in the lower house of the national congress, and recognized as one of the strongest orators in the Middle West, was a caller at state Republican headquarters yesterday, to pay his respects to the Republican organization hustlers and to signify his intention of getting into the political harness for the Republican cause. "I have been working down on the farm for some weeks," said Mr. Landis, "acquiring a fine tan and a splendid taste for honest sleep and healthful toil. I have not kept close tab on things political so far as the large, outside world is concerned, but I find Republicans in Carroll county and in the Ninth district feeling good. Things are in fine shape in the Ninth district. We believe we are going to elect a congressman, and we are in line for the election of the legislative ticket all over the district. We believe that the coming of Theodore Roosevelt will help the Republican cause. The big work will be to get out the vote. It will take organization as well as noise and enthusiasm. I think the farmers will be found ready to vote the Republican ticket. That is the way they talk."

Much attention was attracted by the speech of James E. Watson, who was one of the orators at the First District Republican convention at Booneville. Mr. Watson said in part: "I am exceedingly anxious to see our state ticket successful this fall, and I urge on my friends the necessity of standing together for the purpose. I am equally solicitous for the welfare of our legislative ticket, and whatever I can do, either publicly or privately, looking to either result, will be done." Mr. Watson praised the Taft administration and the showing made by congress, and pointed to prosperous conditions, and to the reduction of the national revenue deficit under the new law. Conceding to every other man the right to a divergent opinion from his own, Mr. Watson spoke as follows on the subject of majority rule: "When a majority of this convention decides on a candidate and on a platform, it will be the duty of the minority to support both candidate and platform with the same ardor and devotion as the majority. I believe the rule holds good in every convention and in every legislative caucus. In my long experience in politics I have always believed it my duty to abide by the rule of the majority in every convention and every caucus. This is a government by parties. By this method alone can the people express themselves at the polls with the understanding that their wishes will be carried into law."

Another Republican winner has been picked for the congressional event of 1910, according to the word that comes from the "Pocket," where Frank B. Posey has been nominated in the First district. The convention was full of ginger and spirit. James A. Hemenway naturally was a prominent figure. The nomination of Mr. Posey was received enthusiastically. Senator Beveridge was given a flattering endorsement. In his speech to the delegates Mr. Posey pointed out that if Republicans pause to dispute over tariff schedules at this time, they merely gratify Democrats at the expense of the country's prosperity. "Nobody thinks," said Mr. Posey, "that the Democratic party has either the brains or the purpose to meet any view of legislation."

Referring to Senator Beveridge Mr. Posey said: "And in this fight we are led by the peerless orator of the nation. No man between the seas speaks with a more potent voice than Albert J. Beveridge. If I believed he were wrong I would be with him still, for I know so well the purpose of his heart that no mere casual mistake would make me falter in my weakness. I know there is no tongue or brain that can forge a stronger argument in defense of right than he. If I thought he had made a mistake, knowing so well his purpose to do right, I know that he would see it in the end. What we want in this country is not a perfect man, for none is infallible, but a man imbued with the high purpose to serve his people and his time and worthily demean him in the high station that he holds. Such is Albert J. Beveridge. I do not concede that he has made mistakes. I do not apologize for him, but I do claim for him that there is no Democrat in all this nation, and certainly not within the confines of this state, who even approaches the brilliancy of his intellect or the fervency of his zeal for the people's welfare."

"Of a different type is William Howard Taft, the lawyer, the scholar, the diplomat. Not less devoted to the people's service, not less desiring the highest good for all his people, pre-eminently wise, cool, reflective and sagacious, a man of fine equipoise and nice discernment, he has so grown in the estimation not only of the common people, but of the people's leaders that his advice is taken in larger measure than any other man's in matters of important legislation, and congress has followed him, not that it feared him, but because it trusted him. Already, though his administration is not half gone, there stands to his credit a long list of beneficial laws, and before that administration is done Taft, the wise, will be the loved of the people and the whole country will rejoice that in his hands, prudent, careful, conservative and safe, no hurt can happen to the country's interests."

Greenfield Reporter: The garden party given last evening at the home of Misses Lois and Gertrude Cooper by the Tri Kappa sorority proved to be one of the most enjoyable affairs in the history of the sorority. The garden and lawn were decorated with many Japanese and Chinese lanterns with numerous settees and cozy nooks. During the evening a curtain was stretched on the lawn and two pantomimes were given. The first was "Betsy and I" which was read by Miss Mabel Felt and acted by Misses Lucy Hughes and Laura Black. "Gone With a Handsomer Man," read by Miss Genevieve New and acted by Miss Laura Black and Miss Lucy Hughes. This was very amusing, the ladies being in costume. Refreshments of pineapple ice and cake were enjoyed on the lawn, after which the company were invited into the house where sweet music and various social diversions were enjoyed until a late hour. About fifty ladies were present. The out-of-town guests were Belda Andrick, Helen Finch of Alexandria; Miss Fitzpatrick of Indianapolis; Miss Hilda Atherton of Philadelphia; Miss Frances Neutzenhelzer of Rushville; Miss Marie Tob and Erma Shierling of North Vernon.

CHAPTER XVI.

SHOWING HOW BRAZIL CHOSE HER PRESIDENT.

TWO thousand five hundred years ago the prophet Jeremiah expressed incredulity as to the power of an Ethiopian to change his skin or a leopard his spots. The march of the centuries has fully justified the seer's historic doubt, so it makes but slight demand on the critical faculties to assume that two years' residence in Europe had not cooled the hot southern blood flowing in Carmela's veins.

She had hated Iris before she set eyes on her. She hated her now that she had seen her rare beauty. She gloated on the suffering inflicted by the presence of the faded old man who claimed her as his bride. Though it was of the utmost importance that she should hasten to her father, she returned to Las Flores in her rival's company, their arms linked in seeming friendship and the Brazilian girl's ears alert to treasure every word that told of Bulmer's wooing.

So Dickey contented himself by listening to Coke's Homeric account of the Andromeda's wrecking, and if he interposed an occasional question and thus drew the girl's sweet voice into the talk it was invariably germane to the strange history of the ship and her human freight.

Coke's narrative was picturesque and lurid. Every incident centered in the striking personality of Philip Hozier. From the instant the second shell struck the winch and laid him apparently dead on the forecastle to the very hour of this coming together at Las Flores, Hozier held the stage. It was he who took Iris on his shoulders and brought her to safety through the spume of the wrathful sea, he who carried her to the hut, he who crossed Fernando Noronha alone to protect her.

Coke was impartial. He would have minimized his own singular bravery in running up the ship's signals had not Iris given him a breathing space while she enthralled the others with her description. Otherwise Coke skipped no line of his epic.

"You'll recollect," he wheezed in a voice that rasped like a file, "you'll recollect, Mr. Verity, as I said to you that Hozier was good enough to take charge of the bridge of a battleship. By—well, any'ow if I'd said the channel fleet I shouldn't 'ave bin talkin' through me 'at. Look at 'im now. 'E's the on'y reel live man Dom Wot's 'is-name 'as got. Sink me, if it wasn't for the folks at 'ome an' the fac' that the Andromeda's skipper ought to keep clear of politics in this crimson country I'd 'ave a cut in at the game meself."

It might be hoped that Carmela's mood would soften when she discovered her rival's hapless love, but that would be expecting something which her bursting southern heart could not give. A volcano pours forth lava, not water. It scorches, not heals. Iris, willing or not, had sapped her Salvador's allegiance. Carmela wanted to see those curved lips writhing in pain, those brown eyes dimmed, that smooth brow wrung with the grief that knows no remedy.

A fierce joy leaped up in her when Verity spoke of an early departure.

"You see, Iris," he explained, "these Brazilian bucks may be months in settling their differences. Dickey an' me, 'elped a lot by our consul, squeezed a pass out of the president—beg pardon, miss, but 'e is president, in Pernambuco at all events," he said in an apologetic aside to Carmela—"an' the sooner we make tracks for ole England the better it'll be for all of us. Wot do you say to an early start tomorrow? We'd be off tonight on'y I'm feared my rheumatically bones wouldn't stand the racket."

The color ebbed from Iris' face, but she said at once:

"I shall be ready, uncle, dear. I promised Dom Corria to look after the hospital appliances that are so much needed by the poor soldiers, but the Senhora de Sylva will attend to that much more effectually than I."

"Good! Then that's settled."

Carmela, of course, did not believe in a woman's complacency in such a vital matter. She was ever prepared to spring, to strike, to wrench their plans to suit her own ends; but, contrive as she might, she could not succeed in leaving Iris alone with Bulmer. Full of device, she was foiled at each turn. The day wore, the sun went down, the starlit sky made beautiful a parched earth, but never a word in privacy did Iris exchange with her husband to be. Carmela's malice was not hidden from her, but she despised it. There was some ease for her tortured brain in defeating it. If the Senhora de Sylva had only understood how thoroughly the Englishwoman loathed her petty jealousy it was possible that the few remaining hours of their enforced intimacy might have been rendered less irksome.

The future is the most cunning of playwrights. No man may tell what the next scene shall be. And no man nor any woman could guess the mad revel of hate and war that would rage that night around the placid homestead of Las Flores.

Behind the veranda was a huge ballroom converted by the exigencies of the campaign into a dining hall for the many inmates of the finca. The Brazilian ladies, the sailors, some sick or wounded officers who were not confined to bed, even the household servants, took their meals there in common. Supper was served soon after 9 o'clock. When cigars and cigarettes were lighted and the company broke up into laughing, gossiping, noisy groups, the place looked more like a popular continental cafe than a room in a private mansion.

Though De Sylva, General Russo, San Benavides and some score of members of the president's staff who usually dined at the finca were now absent, there was no lack of lively chatter. A very babel of tongues mixed in amity. The prevalent note was one of cheery animation. Carmela exerted herself to win popularity, and a president's daughter need not put forth very strenuous efforts in that direction to be acclaimed by most.

Iris was listening with real interest to Verity's description of the finding of Macfarlane in the Andromeda's boat by a Cardiff bound collier three days after he had drifted away from Fernando Noronha.

"The yarn kem to us through the consul at Pernambuco," he said. "Evidently, from wot you tell me, it's all right. Poor ole Mac 'ad a bad time afore 'e was picked up, but 'e was alive, an' I'm jolly glad of it, for 'e'll be a first rate witness w'en this business comes up in court."

"Wot court?" demanded Coke sharply.

A Few Short Weeks.

Mr. J. S. Bartell, Edwardsville, Ill., writes: "A few months ago my kidneys become congested. I had severe backache and pain across the kidneys and hips. Foley Kidney Pills promptly cured my backache and corrected the action of my kidneys. This was brought about after my using them for only a few short weeks and I can cheerfully recommend them." For sale by F. B. Johnson & Co.

"The court that settles our claim, of course," retorted Verity, with a quick ferret look at his fellow conspirator.

"There'll be no claim. The president means to stomp up in style. You take my tip an' shut up about courts," said Coke.

"It'll cost Brazil a tidy penny," remarked Bulmer thoughtfully.

A criado, a nondescript manservant attached to the household, stooped over Iris and whispered something. She gathered that she was wanted in the patee, or courtyard, which, owing to the construction of the house, stood on one side instead of in front, where the lawn usurped its usual position.

"Who is it?" she asked.

"Colonel San Benavides, senhora."

"Tell him to wait," she said, hoping to gain a moment wherein to decide how best to act.

"It is urgent, senhora—ao mesmo tempo, the colonel said."

"Go! That is my answer."

Iris had no wish to meet San Benavides. If she were seen with him in the dark patee at this late hour fuel would be added to the fire of Carmela's foolish spite. She was aware of Carmela's covert glance watching her from the other end of the long room.

What was to be done? Why not send Carmela in her stead? They were almost of the same height and dressed somewhat alike in flowered muslin.

It would be an amusing mistake, though annoying perhaps to San Benavides. At any rate, Carmela would not object, and Iris was fully resolved not to keep the trust in person.

She walked straight to her enemy.

"Colonel San Benavides awaits you in the patee," she said in English.

"Awaits me!"

There was no mistaking the gleam in those jet black eyes. The smoldering fire flamed into furnace heat at the implied indignity of such a mandate being delivered by Iris.

"I suppose so," said Iris carelessly.

"A servant brought the message. He came to me in the first instance, but I am just going to my room to pack my few belongings. We leave here at daybreak, you know."

So at last Carmela would learn the truth. Salvador was out there alone. She would soon judge him. If he were innocent she would know. If he had merely been made the sport of a designing woman she was ready to forgive. In a more amiable mood than she had displayed at any moment since her arrival at Las Flores, Carmela hastened along a dark corridor, crossed a bare hall, passed through a porch and searched the shadows of the patee for the form of her one time lover.

A voice whispered in French:

"Come quickly, senhora, I pray you!"

It started her to find San Benavides talking French until it occurred to her that Iris and he must converse in that language or hardly at all. The thought was disquieting. The volcano stirred again.

"Senhora, je vous prie!" again pleaded the man, who was on horseback under the trees.

She did not hesitate, but ran to him. Without a word of explanation he caught her in his arms, drew her up until she was seated on the holsters strapped to a gaucho saddle and wheeled his horse into a gallop. Filled with a grim determination, she uttered no protest. Not a syllable crossed her lips lest he should strive to amend his woeful blunder. She noticed that they were not going toward the camp, but circling round the inclosed land in the direction of the hills. Though the night was dark, the stars gave light enough for the horse to move freely. Carmela's head was bent.

But San Benavides wondered why the coldINGLEZA had surrendered so silently. He expected at least a scream, a struggle, an impassioned demand to be released.

"One word, senhora," he muttered.

"You must think me mad. I am not. All is lost. Our army is defeated. In an hour Las Flores will be in flames."

The girl quivered in his arms. A moaning cry came from her.

"It is true, I swear it!" he vowed.

"I mean you no ill. I fought till the end, and my good horse alone carried me in advance of the routed troops. Dom Corria may reach the finca alive, but even so he and the rest will be killed. I refused to escape without you. Believe me or not, you are dearer than life itself."

Carmela, with a sudden movement, raised her face to his and threw aside her veil.

"Salvador!" she said.

His eyes glared into hers. His frenzied clutch at the reins pulled the horse on to its haunches.

"My God, Carmela!" he almost shrieked.

"Yes. So you are running away, Salvador—running away with the English miss, deserting my father in the hour of his need! But she will die with the others, you say. Well, then, join her!"

During that quick twist on the horse's withers she had plucked a revolver from a holster. She meant to shatter that false face of his utterly, to blast him as with lightning, but the lock snapped harmlessly, for San Benavides had indeed borne himself gallantly in the fray. He struck at her now in a whirl of fury. She winced, but with catamount activity drew back her arm and hit him on the temple with the heavy weapon. He collapsed limply, reeled from off the saddle, and they fell together. The frightened horse, finding himself at liberty, galloped to the camp, where already there was an unusual commotion.

"I HAVE KILLED HIM."

Carmela flung herself on the man's body. She was capable of extremes either of grief or passion.

"Salvador, my love, my love!" she screamed. "What have I done? Speak to me, Salvador! It is I, Carmela! Oh, Mary Mother, come to my aid! I have killed him—killed my Salvador!"

He looked very white and peaceful as he lay there in the gloom. She could not see whether his lips moved. She was too distraught to note if his heart was beating. It seemed incredible that she, a weak woman, should have crushed the life out of that lithe and active frame with one blow. She rose and ran blindly.

Long before Carmela reached the finca San Benavides stirred, groaned, squirmed convulsively and raised himself on hands and knees. He turned and sat down, feeling his head.

"The spitfire!" he muttered. "The she devil! And that other! Would that I could wring her neck!"

A spattering of rides crackled in the valley. There was a blurred clamor of voices. He looked at the sky, at the black summits of the hills. He stood up, and his inseparable sword clanked on the stony ground.

"Ah, well," he growled, "I have done with women. They have had the best of my life. What is left I give to Brazil."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

Time is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription of personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.
A postal will bring the opportunity.
I will have an honest and trustworthy drug-gist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.
But first, ask me for the order, for all drug-gists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.
So write me now and save all dollars. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

OLD EMPLOYEES GET WARNING

Statement From Company That During Strike Men Who Went Out Would Be Considered Out of Company's Employ Has Had a Sobering Effect
Upon Those Over 45 Years of Age Who Would Thus Be Barred From Returning.Pittsburg, July 16.—The conference between officers and employees of the Pennsylvania west of here adjourned until Monday without accomplishing anything in the way of a settlement.
There has come from the officers of the road a statement to the effect that it is the intent of the company to enforce the age limit clause in all cases should the men working on the lines west of Pittsburg decide to strike.
The statement is not signed, but is given as a statement of existing conditions by the road people. It is set forth that about 70 per cent of the present employees are over forty-five years of age, and that the road does not employ anyone after he has reached the age of forty-five. Should the men strike they will be considered as out of the company's employ during the strike, no matter what the end of the strike may be, and they will not be eligible for employment at the end.
This is thought to have had something to do with having the conference postponed.The committee representing the men empowered a subcommittee of six, headed by A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, to call a strike whenever they deemed it necessary.At a special meeting the directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company adopted a resolution fully approving the course of its officers in resisting the demands of its employees. Mr. Garretson, discussing the situation, said:
"It's all off. Nothing will come from us in the form of overtures. We are ready to go out, and can stand it if the company can. There will be no compromise on our position. We get what we ask for or we don't get it; that's all there is to it."

GOING AFTER THEM

Some Sensational Arrests Are Expected at Newark.Newark, O., July 16.—Arrests that will startle the citizens of this city are expected in connection with the lynching of Carl Etherington. So far twenty-five persons have been taken into custody for alleged implication in the mob violence, but the authorities, fearing another outbreak refuse to give out the prisoners' names. It is thought that some of the prisoners, to save themselves, will turn state's evidence and make revelations which will result in wholesale arrests, enmeshing some of the city's leading residents. Mayor Atherton, who has resigned, announces that he will remain here to disprove Attorney General Denham's charges that he took Etherington's hand after the lynching and then walked away smoking a cigar. Assistant Attorney General Miller and the county and city authorities are busily engaged in procuring evidence for the spectral grand jury.

MILLIONAIRE'S SUICIDE

Chicago Man Takes His Own Life After Quarrel With Women.Chicago, July 16.—Charles W. Rigdon, reputed to be a millionaire real estate dealer, sixty-five years old, shot and instantly killed himself following a quarrel with two women.
Before taking his own life he fired repeatedly at both women, probably mortally wounding Emma Dubex. The other woman, Margaret Wilson, was not hurt. The cause of the shooting is a mystery, but according to the most available information the quarrel which resulted in the tragedy followed a dispute over money matters.Colonel Roosevelt will make an ad-

PROFESSIONAL JEALOUSIES

Opposing Factions on Indiana State Board of Medical Examination and Registration Have Created a Situation Which Governor Marshall Declares Makes Him Weary and Which He Will Seek to Correct.Indianapolis, July 16.—Governor Marshall has sent word to the members of the state board of medical examination and registration that he would like to see them in private conference in his office before they adjourn the present session, held for the purpose of conducting the regular semi-annual examination of graduate students.The governor has grown weary of dissensions among opposing factions on the board, and will, he said, try to make them see that, for the good of the medical profession in the state and for the standing of the board, they should cease their wrangling. The word was sent as a result of the adoption of a petition depriving Dr. John F. Spaunhurst, osteopathist, of the privilege of examining forty-one members of the class in the subjects assigned him.The governor intimated that when he met the board he would seek, in private conference, to go to the bottom of the difficulties among the members, and that he hoped he would be able to clear affairs up so that there would be no future bickerings. It is not the intention of the governor, he intimated, to ask for the resignations of any of the members, as he believes the difficulties can be adjusted between the osteopaths and the regulars without a reorganization.Burt New, legal clerk to the governor, reported that the action of the board in granting the petition was legal.

LOOKING FOR CRIPPEN

Husband of Murdered Actress Sought by the Police of the World.London, July 15.—The police are making extraordinary efforts to secure the arrest of Dr. Crippen, the husband of Belle Elmore, the American vaudeville actress whose body was found buried in the cellar of her home at 39 Hilldrop Crescent, North London. The doctor disappeared several days ago and is supposed to have gone away with another woman.The other woman in the case is said by the police to be Ethel Clare Leneve, Crippen's former stenographer.
The police theory is that Crippen sailed from Liverpool for New York last Sunday. The Leneve woman disappeared at the same time he did.
Belle Elmore and Dr. Crippen had lived in London upward of eleven years. She was born in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn thirty years ago. Dr. Crippen is a homeopathic physician, graduate of a Cleveland college, who has practiced in New York, Philadelphia, Detroit and San Diego, Cal. He was employed for several years by a patent medicine concern in Philadelphia, after which he came to England, where he made money by running correspondence schools for the treatment of diseases of the ear, institutions which were attacked by the newspapers and denounced from the bench. He is fifty years old.

Bankers Want Him.

Carmi, Ill., July 15.—B. E. Carleton, who says he is an Indianapolis traveling salesman, was arrested here on a charge of passing worthless checks.
His suitcase was filled with worthless checks, and it was learned that the Illinois State Bankers' association had offered a reward of $100 for his arrest.

Wife Deserter Sentenced.

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 15.—Six months in jail and a fine of $100 was the sentence meted out by Judge Mun-govan in the city court here to John Dornick, a young man convicted of wife desertion. The couple was married four years ago, when each was seventeen years of age.

Posey's Opponent Withdrew.

Boonville, Ind., July 15.—Frank B.
Posey of Evansville was nominated for congress by the First district Republicans, defeating John W. Brady, who withdrew before the completion of the vote, making the choice of Posey by acclamation.

Renominated by Acclamation.

Muncie, Ind., July 15.—John A. M.
Adair was renominated by acclamation to succeed himself as the representative of the Eighth Indiana district in the lower house of congress.

No Reason Given.

Casey, Ill., July 15.—Frank Fakes, aged twenty-seven, a farmer, committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. No reason is known for his desire to end his life.Battle Ground Camp Meeting.

BRYAN INTO RACECandidacy for the Senate May Be Announced Today.Omaha, July 16.—A political sensation was sprung in Nebraska last evening when W. B. Price, Democratic candidate for the United States senate announced his withdrawal from the race, leaving the coast clear for W. J.
Bryan or R. L. Metcalfe, editor of Bryan's Commoner, to take his place. Today is the last day for filing entries for office and either Bryan or Metcalfe will file for the position today. Already a petition with several thousand signatures asking Bryan to become a candidate is in the hands of friends, while a smaller Metcalfe petition has been prepared and has the requisite number of signatures for filing.Bryan has been engaged in fighting for a county option plank in the Democratic platform. Price, as a senatorial candidate announced his adhesion to that plank, but Congressman Hitchcock, the leading Democratic candidate for the senate is against county option. Bryan has been fighting Hitchcock and is said to have used Price as a weapon to force Hitchcock into prohibition.Metcalfe, as editor of the Commoner is thoroughly in accord with Bryan, and unless Bryan now enters the race in place of Price, will himself file for the office and will have Bryan's strength in the campaign. Should Bryan permit his friends to file his petition today it will then be only necessary that he accept the filing which requires no move on his part.

name of the United Light and Railway company, with a capital of $30,000,000.

Farmer Kills Child.

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 16.—In a violent fit of anger Moses Richer, a farmer of near Grubill, hurled his twelve-year-old foster son, Charles Coast against the side of a building with such force as to fracture the lad's skull, from which injury death resulted.
Richer was arrested and is in jail.An anarchist plot against the king of Spain is reported to have been discovered in Valladolid.

on a stand erected on the court house square, while the merchants were visited in their stores. The Rushville Social club threw open its doors to the boosters with great bowls of lemonade as refreshments.

At Milroy also the population turned out to honor the visitors, firing anvils at intervals while the party was in town. Mr. Bookwalter made a brief talk there also. A committee, composed of J. H. Spillman, J. E. Patton, F. C. Green and P. T. Innis, Milroy citizens, met the boosters at Rushville and acted as a personal escort to their own town.

Brief stops were made at Arlington and Glenwood on the out trip, and at St. Paul and Waldron on the return. At St. Paul the entire business district had been transferred to the traction station, handbills having been distributed generally requesting merchants to transform themselves into a large reception committee.

Only short stops were made at New Palestine and Pountaintown, but the merchants at both places were at the station to welcome the visitors. At Morristown the visitors paraded through the business district and the band played on the main street for a time. The streets had been especially oiled and the lawns trimmed and decorated in honor of the visitors.

At Connorsville an informal reception was held in the Commercial Club's beautiful rooms, short speeches being made by L. A. Frazee, for the local merchants, and Mr. Bookwalter and John N. Carey for the visitors. It was there that the visiting business men enjoyed a joke at their own expense. It had been discovered that Connorsville was "dry"—very dry, some of the Indianapolis men said.

The word was passed about quietly that the thirsty might go to the third floor of the building, rap twice on a door, and get something. Many rapped twice. Many were admitted, one or two at a time, to a small room, where a large tub of bottles packed in ice looked most tantalizing. The utmost secrecy was required. Men were pledged not to tell. With these preliminaries corks were drawn, bottles tipped and the liquor flowed down dry throats unrestrained until the drinkers would suddenly lower the bottle, spew forth that part which had not been swallowed, and look hurt. Some said it was colored water with quinine therein. Others thought it was not very near-beer. At any rate, they all went forth to tell others of the two-rap signal, and as the tip spread abroad it was said that many thirsty Connorsville men also sought the supposed blind tiger.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Ruling Passion" is the title of the film which will be shown at the Star Grand theater tonight. It is a Mexican drama with the scenes laid in the beautiful southland. The story brings out the fact that the gaming spirit is the ruling passion of the inhabitants of that country, that they will take a chance on anything. A love story is intermingled with the plot which makes it very interesting and intricate. Leon Maxey will sing "When You Were My Emma Lou."

The Vaudet will show the Imp film, "A Mother Love" tonight. It is conceded to be one of the best dramatic subjects yet produced, depicting a story of intense human interest that does not fail to pull on the heart strings. It is a very unique story and for that reason if for no other is of considerable merit.

The Palace theater management will offer a good program for the Saturday night crowds in the film, "A Victim of Hate." It is advertised as a drama of some merit with a strong and interesting plot. Miss Iva Brown will sing a new illustrated song.

Try the fried chicken dinner at Whitehead's restaurant tomorrow.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

There was an aviation dance at the Modern Woodmen hall last night. The first flight "Up in the Air" was to have taken place at eight o'clock and "Back to Earth and Home, Sweet Home" was scheduled for eleven o'clock. The car carrying the musicians was the first thing to get flighty. It and the Reedville circuit went on the "bum" simultaneously. Eight-thirty came and the car was still soaring around the tail of Halley's comet. Chief Lineman Emory started his "dirigible" with Brown as pilot for a search of the heavens about eight-forty-five. By that time the ascension at the hall had taken such gigantic proportions that their "dirigible," loaded with sixty people, had broken all previous records as to height of flight. Nine, nine-thirty, and ten—the I. & C. came off their perch at the last named hour. Amid cheers, that resembled scores and scores of new-fangled automobile warnings, the musicians stepped into the hall and flight one started. "Back to Earth and Home, Sweet Home" brought rain and more rain—also cabs, buggies, carriages and autos. But the worst of all on the return was to find that ham sandwiches had been raised to a dime. Vive la Aviation.

SECOND TWIN IS DEAD

The Infant Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Murray Expires.

Rollina, the twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Murray of near Glenwood, died yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, having lived only a few months. The infant had never been very strong. An especially sad feature is the fact that the other twin died just one week ago.

The beauty and hardness of amber have long caused it to be esteemed by smokers. In Turkey as much as $1,500 is often given for a single mouthpiece. Its value differs according to its tint and opacity. The most valuable is the opaque lemon colored.

ARRANGE FOR "BOOMERS' DAY"

Famous "Nip and Tuck" Springs at New Castle Will be Seat of Oratory August 2.

PROMINENT MEN WILL ATTEND

Many Newspaper Men From all Parts of State Have Been Invited For Occasion.

The citizens of New Castle, under the management of the Nip and Tuck club, are preparing to observe "Boomers' Day" in a unique yet fitting manner on Tuesday, August 2. The feature of the occasion will be a demonstration of the Universal motor truck, an invention that bids fair to revolutionize the application of power to vehicles, a visit to the factories and greenhouses, and a fried chicken banquet with oratorical trimmings at the famous "Nip and Tuck" springs. Among the guests there will be many men distinguished in politics, finance and industrial arts. Many newspaper men have also been asked to come and the Daily Republican acknowledges receipt of an invitation. The New Castle Courier says:

The invitation brigade which has charge of inviting the guests here on "Boomers' Day" hit upon the novel scheme of inviting the editor of every paper in the State of Indiana to come to "the top of the earth" and get wise to what is going on here. These editors will be asked to come themselves in person or send a representative. Editors of the big metropolitan papers will also be asked to have some one here as an official representative. Who knows, the New York Herald may send Thomas J. Geraghty, formerly of the Rushville Republican.

The other committees are busy and no stone is being left unturned. On the whole, it is about the busiest bunch of men in the history of New Castle. Never before has there been the unanimity of good feeling, willingness and interest as at the present time. That kind of feeling and the prevailing spirit counts for much. It means something and shows just how greatly are the people interested in the big day.

Dr. Helen Putman, of Chicago, says at least 400,000 children less than five years old in this country die every year, and a quarter-million infants less than two years old. She asserts Americans are more wasteful of human lives than anything else in the country, though they do not mean to be.

The lily is extensively eaten in China. Among the edible flowers of the occident, are artichokes, cauliflower, cloves, capers and chrysanthemums.

How to Cure Eczema, Pimples, And Dandruff.

We desire to say that when we took the agency for ZEMO, we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, pimples, and dandruff. Yet, we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use.

ZEMO effects its cures by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and can be used freely on infants.

With every purchase, we give a booklet on skin disease explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy. F. E. Wolcott, Druggist.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

OVERLAND IN WAGON.

(New Castle Courier.) Mr. and Mrs. William Wells of Cambridge City, have started on a long overland trip in a covered wagon and expect to make Washington, D. C., their objective point, visiting places of interest enroute. The trip will cover the greater part of the year. Mr. Wells showed his disapproval of what he regards as the too rapid pace of the age, by cultivating his crops last year with a yoke of oxen while his neighbors were enjoying the benefit of modern farm implements.

MAKES RECORD IN FINE.

(Columbus Republican.) Sixty days in the Bartholomew county jail and $250 fine.

The above is the prize package drawn by James "Stub" Henry in the city court Thursday afternoon when he was convicted of running a blind tiger. Mayor Barnaby imposed the sentence and gave Henry the biggest amount of punishment he has yet handed out in a liquor case. Henry made no defense in the city court, and as soon as the case was over he took an appeal to the circuit court, where the case will be threshed out again.

OTHER HORSE WAS JEALOUS.

(Shelbyville Republican.) A short time ago this paper contained a story concerning a two-year-old colt belonging to Amos Fouty, the well known Moral township horseman, that had learned to ring the dinner bell. Another high bred colt of the same age, also owned by Mr. Fouty, evidently read this story and became jealous of his brother, who did something he was not able to do and he determined to show him that he could ring the bell, too. Mr. Fouty heard a commotion the other day, and going out he saw the two colts struggling with each other in their efforts to reach the bell rope. One of them succeeded in getting it in his mouth but before he could jerk it the other snatched it away. Mr. Fouty allowed each one to ring the bell and then he gave each a lump of sugar.

PESTIFEROUS VERMIN.

(Indianapolis Star.) A good many people with the pious theory in mind that every created thing must have been designed for some good purpose, have wondered vaguely at times what certain insects and other vermin were intended for. As scientific light on the subject comes it is learned of these creatures one by one, that whatever the original meritorious purpose of their being might be, each is capable of great mischief.

The mosquito was found to be the medium of conveying yellow fever and malaria; it was discovered that rats carry about with them the germs of bubonic plague and those of various ills from which children often suffer. Flies convey the seeds of typhoid fever, diphtheria and the like. It is now thought that the new disease, pellagra—new, at least, in this country—is disseminated by gnats which first gain the infection by biting Italian immigrants affected by the malady and then passing on the germ to other victims of their assaults.

The latest theory in this line is that mice are responsible for measles. It has not been determined by the discovery of the measles germ in mice, for this germ has never been differentiated, but many observations go to show that original cases of measles develop where mice abound. Children who have not been exposed to the disease among their companions fall ill with it after playing in hay or straw in stables where mice abound. Farmers pitching wheat straw from an old rick where mice were abundant came down with the measles. In the civil war soldiers sleeping on straw often suffered from measles and the trouble then was thought to be with the straw, but it is now held to be that the straw had been infested by mice.

Many instances going to support the theory are advanced, and though the theory can not be proved until the germ is discovered, the evidence is sufficient to show that the mouse is a creature to be exterminated for more reasons than one. Mosquitoes, flies, gnats, rats, mice and pestiferous, and unrelenting war should be waged against them. Probably they never can be destroyed, but at least the plague of them can be greatly reduced, all to the benefit of mankind.

MAY USE FLYING SQUADRON.

(Shelbyville Republican.)

When the Board of Directors of the Shelby County Agricultural Association meets on Saturday, one of the subjects which would be considered and one that is being followed by every county in this section of the State—"Use a flying squadron as one means of advertising the greatest fair in the country." Recently the merchants of Rushville, in advertising their "Big Wednesday," sent several automobiles into the country loaded with passengers and bills and these men were kept busy several days making trips into the farm districts and almost every home in the county was reached and most all the people of Rush were apprised of the fact that there was to be a big day in that county seat. Greensburg, a few days before the big Elks' circus had five or six automobiles going into the adjoining counties for several days before the big event was pulled off and this attraction was advertised thoroughly. Yesterday Edinburg had a bunch of men here advertising the Edinburg races and they came in automobiles.
